

Online Learning - These days, lots of people are learning all sorts of things online. Why not give it a try?

3 - GCF LearnFree

GCF stands for Goodwill Community Foundation: this online learning platform has been around for almost twenty years. The content focuses on digital skills like email and Microsoft Office, as well as essential skills like reading and maths. The site is American, so some of the terminology may seem a little different.

The site offers more than:

- 200 topics
- 7000 lessons
- 1000 videos
- 50 games/interactives

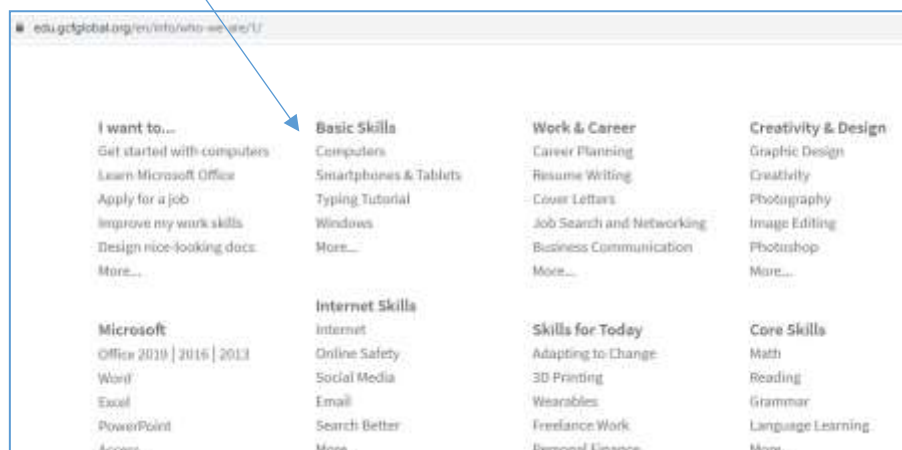

You can learn what you want, when you want.

You can learn anywhere, anytime, as long as you have an internet connection.

The main menu is clearly laid out in subject areas.

Libraries NI is not endorsing or promoting any product, service or company mentioned in this document and other products are available

For example;
Select 'Maths', then 'Percents'.

Work through the tutorial sections, then try the 'Assessment'.

Suppose you buy a $50 coffeemaker in an area where the sales tax is 8%. When you check out, 8% of $50 would be added to your total price. How much would you pay total?

Click through the slideshow to learn how to calculate sales tax.

You can log in and save your progress.

Select 'Design nice-looking docs'

- I want to...
- Get started with computers
- Learn Microsoft Office
- Apply for a job
- Improve my work skills
- Design nice-looking docs
- More...

There are lots of other courses to choose from:

This will take you to an introductory Graphic Design course:

Finding inspiration

You can find ideas for color schemes in all kinds of interesting places, from advertising and branding to famous works of art.

Find out about typography, colour, layout, image, branding and design fundamentals with this short course from the Creativity and Design section. Or return to the main menu and choose another!

Libraries NI is not endorsing or promoting any product, service or company mentioned in this document and other products are available